

Contribution ID: 478

Type: Plenary presentation

Making Steel Great Again: U.S. Steel Production in the Trump Era

Tuesday 7 October 2025 09:40 (20 minutes)

While global steel demand is weakening, the North American market has demonstrated resilience. And now U.S. President Donald Trump is promising to further energize American steelmaking through heightened tariffs and a broader acceptance of diverse energy supplies. But to what long-term effect? This presentation will explore new investment plans and perspectives on how innovation, technology, and policy are shaping strategic investment decisions for the North American steel industry.

Primary author: ASHBURN, Ronald (Association for Iron & Steel Technology)

Presenter: ASHBURN, Ronald (Association for Iron & Steel Technology)

Session Classification: Opening session

Track Classification: Steel materials and their application